Infant Died Sunday Night.

Died at the home of his parents in Kuttawa, Ky., just after midnight, last Sunday night Charles William Black, son of Clarence Black and Willie Black age eighteen months and four days. He was a very bright lovable child and was a great pet especially with his grand-parents. He was sick for a number of days, and every thing was done for the little fellow that love and skill could do. God claimed him as his own. He quietly and peacefully fell asleep in the arms of Jesus. His funeral was conducted by Rev. Oliver at the home. A large company of relatives and friends were present, and followed the remains to the cemetery, where amid song and flowers the precious little body was laid to rest. Brother and sister Black have the sympathy of entire community in their sore affliction. May they be able to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away," "His will be done."—Lyon County Times.

The many friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Black, will read the above with much regret.

ANTHRACITE COAL FOUND

Sensational Discovery Report to Have Been Made.

Calo, Ill., March 18.—The discovery of a 5-foot vein of anthracite coal has been made within three miles of Marion, 110 feet down in the shaft of the Spilertown Coke & Coal company. The coal is declared to be equal in every respect to the finest Pennsylvania grade.

Test made by Mr. Wilkerson, president of the company, and an expert mineralogist with an international reputation, show that the coke from the coal runs in fixed carbon 93.15. The coal shows a run of thermal units of 12,26. These great figures indicate that the coal is the finest on the continent, besides containing a high grade of neutral tar and ammonia.

The test have been carried on with the greatest secrecy. In the meantime the mining rights on the thousands of acres in the vicinity have been secured.

Lesson for Merchants.

There is a lesson for every merchant in the experience told by a representative of a Chicago mail order house to a gathering of newspaper men up in Iowa. He said that mail order business depended entirely upon advertising. He made one remark that "merchants should heed." He says that they take the local papers and directed their special efforts to communities where the merchants were not up-to-date advertisers. If the mail order man finds that any line of business in any town or city is not well advertised, as for instance furniture, he said that they flood that territory with their literature and always with satisfactory results. He believed it true. He said that country merchants could greatly cripple the mail order houses if they would advertise freely and in the right manner. He said that every advertisement should describe the articles to be sold and state the price. Here is food for thought by merchants who fear the effect of mail order-houses.

Neighbors Got Fooled

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Unscapher, of Grovertown, Stark Co., Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, Druggist 50c.

A Novel Idea.

The wife of a well known artist when she entertains at dinner uses for table decorations little squares of white with gay red flowers, on which are set little trees made of branches of real leaves dipped in a preservative. The arrangement suggests an Italian garden. Half of the tiny trees are perfectly round, the others long, slender and pointed at the tops. Alternate trees have little garlands of bright red berries. In the other berries are put in here and there to give a touch of color. The arboreal favors were brought over from Germany by this economical young woman, who finds a dozen of them give a charming effect and save her from spending money on flowers.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Both Agreeable and Effective

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no superior for coughs, colds and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant to take and contains nothing in any way injurious has made it a favorite with mothers. Mr. W. It is especially successful in cases of croup. Children like it and my customers who have used it will not take any other." For sale by J. H. Orme, the leading druggist in western Ky.

A Toast to Laughter.

Here's to laughter, the sunshine of the soul, the happiness of the heart, the heaven of youth, the privilege of purity, the echo of innocence, the treasure of the humble, the wealth of the poor, the head of the cup of pleasure; it dispels dejection, banishes blues, and mingles melancholy; for it's the foe of woe, the destroyer of dejection, the enemy of grief; it makes kings envy the pen-suits, plutocrats envy the poor, the guilty envy the innocent; it's the shewn on the silver of smiles, the light of the gold of gladness; without it humor would disappear, and smiles would shrivel, for it's glow of a clean conscience, the voice of a pure soul, the birth cry of mirth, the swan song of sadness. Laughter.—Life.

Clears The Complexion.

Moody Offers His Cure.

Twilight L. Moody once called on a ministerial brother in an eastern town, desiring to spend the next day, Sunday, with him. The minister was agreeable, but said that he was ashamed to ask Moody to preach. "Why?" asked Mr. Moody. "Well," was the reply, "our people have got such a habit of going out before the close of the meeting that it would be an imposition on a stranger." "I will preach," said Moody. When Sunday arrived Mr. Moody opened the meeting, and then encouragingly said: "My hearers, I am going to speak to two sorts today—the sinners first, then the saints." After earnestly addressing the supposed sinners, he said that they could now take their hats and go. But the whole congregation waited and heard him to the end.—Boston Herald.

We are authorized to announce R. H. THOMAS a candidate for Assessor, to fill out the unexpired term of J. Anthony Davidson, subject to the action of the Republican party. He endorses the local option law.

Divergency of opinions by insanity experts leads one to doubt whether half of them are sane.

These are gloomy days for the man who looks forward to paying two ten-spots for his wife's Easter bonnet and about two bits for his Easter necktie.

A writer in a woman's magazine wants to know why men wear suspenders. For one reason, because they do not understand the gentle art of making one pin hold up and together some seven or nine yards of cloth.

A Missouri woman is very angry with her home paper because in writing up her husband's death, the editor said: "He has gone to a happier home." This creates doubt as to where she thinks the deceased really went. Either place might be happier.

This is the season of the year when a man (who complains about the work of keeping a lawn the size of a postage stamp in good condition in summer) imagines that he would make a first class manager of a farm of 320 acres.

Kentucky is so rapidly going "dry" that after a while a man will need a military record to be entitled to the rank of "Colonel."

The government will soon issue a John Smith postage stamp, and the entire Smith family will no doubt get busy with its correspondence.

Congress used up 9,000,000 words in appropriating about $1,000,000,000 during the short session just ended. This being a fraction more than $41 a word, gives us an idea of what our statesmen cost us.

'Tis Light On High.

by O. G. W.

As when the valleys all in shadow lie,
And shadowy shapes of fear still haunt the night,
Some mountain peak reflects the coming light.

And waiting lips break forth with joyful cry
For gladness that at last the day is nigh.

So when some soul, that towers afar, is bright,
The souls that sit in shadow at the sight
Grow sudden glad to know 'tis light on high!

And when these mountain-towering men can say,
"We see, though it be hidden, from your eyes,"
We believe in better things to be!
So, through the shadows still obscure our way,
We see the light, reflected from the skies,
That crowns thy brows, O Man of Galilee!

REV. JOHN JASPER

A Wonderful Preacher—Report of one of His Sermons.

In the Baptist Argus last week, Doctor Wm. E. Hatcher gives his impressions of a sermon preached by the noted colored preacher, John Jasper, of Richmond, Va.

Imagine a Sunday afternoon at his church—a fair, inspiring day. His house was thronged to overflowing. It was the funeral of two persons—William Ellersin and Mary Barnes. The text is forgotten but the sermon is vividly recalled. From the start Jasper showed a burden and a holdness that promised rich things for his people.

At the beginning he betrayed some hesitation—unusual for him. "Lemme say," he said, "a word about dis William Ellersin. I say it at de fust an' git it off me. William Ellersin was no good man—he didn't say he wus; he didn't try to be good, and da tell me he die as he live, 'out Gord an' out hope in de worl. It's a bad tale to tell on him, but he fix de story hissef. As de tree falls dar mus it lay. Ef you wants folks who live wrong to be preached and sang to glory, don't bring to Jasper. Gord confut de monar and warn de onruly."

"But my bruthrin," he brightened as he spoke, "Mary Barnes was diffrunt. She wer wush'd in de blood of de Lam' and walk'd in white; her religion was of Gord. Yer could trust Mary anywhar; nuv'r cotch'er in dem playhouses ner friskin' in dem dances, she wan' no street-walk'r tramping roun at night. She love de house of de Lord, her feet clung to de strait and narrer path. I know'd her. I seen her at de prametin—seed her as de preachin' and seed her tendin' de sick and helpin' de mournin' sinner. Our Sister Mary, good bye. Yer race is run but yer crown is show."

From this Jasper shot quite apart. He was full of fire, humor gleamed in his eye, and freedom was the bread of his soul. By degrees he approached the realm of death, and he went as an invader. A note of defiant challenge rang in his voice and almost blazed on his lips.

He escorted the Christian to the court of death, and demanded of the monster king to exhibit his power to hurt. It was wonderful to see how he pictured the high courage of the child of God, marching up to the very face of the king of terrors and demanding that he come forth and do his worst. Death on the other hand was subdued, slow of speech, admitted his defeat, and proclaimed his readiness to serve the children of Immanuel. Then he effected to put his mouth to the mouth of the grave and cried aloud "Grave! Er Grave!" he cried as if addressing a real person. "Whar yer vetry? I hur you got a mighty banner down dar, and you turrinze everybody what comes long dis way. Bring out your armies and furl foth your banners of vetry. Show your han an' let em see what you kin do. Then he made the grave reply, "Ain't got no vetry now had vetry but King Jesus pard through dis country and tord my banners down. He say his people shan't be troubl'd no mo' forever, an' he tell me ter opn de gates and let um pass on dar way to glory."

"Oh, my Gord," Jasper exclaimed in thrilling voice, "did yer hur dar? My Master Jesus done pard de sting of death, done broke de scept'r of de king of terrors, and he dun gone inter de grave and rob it of its victorious banners, and fix'd nice and smooth for his people to pass through. Mo'en dat, he has writ a song, a shoutin' anthim for us to sing when we go thur, passin' suns and stars, and singin' dat song. 'Thanks be enter Gord—be enter Gord who give us de vetry thur de Lord Jesus Christ. Too well I know that I do want justice to the greatness of Jasper by this inadequate outline of his transcendent eloquence. The whole scene, distinct in every detail was before the audience, and his responsive hearer.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Phosphorus substances are then absorbed into the blood. Instead of being removed from the body, they are a natural ingredient. Keep the liver clean with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. All vegetables.

were stirred into uncontrollable excitement.

"My bruthrin," Jasper resumed very soberly, "I oft'n ax myself how I'd behave meself if I was ter git ter heav'n. I tell you I would tremble de consequences. Eben now when I gits er glimpse—just a peep into de palis of de King it fairly runs me ravin' stracted. What will I do ef I gits thar? I spee I'll make er fool of myself, 'cause I ain't got de pritty ways and nice manners my ole maw Sam Hargrove used to have, but ef I git thar they ain't to put me out. Mars Sam'll speak four me an' tell dem to teach me how to do. I sometimes think if I loved to go free, I spees to be free dar I tell you, believe I'll just do de town, walkin' an' runnin' all roun to see de home which Jesus dun built for his people."

"Fust of all I'd go down an' see de River of Life. I love to go down now to de ole muddy James—mighty red an' muddy, but it goes long so gran an' quiet like 'twas tennin to business, but dat ain't nothin to de river which flows by de throne. I longs for its christal waves, an' de trees on de banks, an' de all mann's of fruits. Dis ole head of mine oh'n gits hot with fever, aches all night an' rolls on de piller, an' I has many times desire to cool it in that blessed stream as it kisses de banks of dat upper Canaan. B'less'd be de Lord! De thought of seein dat river, drinkin its water an' restin un'r dose trees— Then suddenly Jasper began to intone a chorus in a most affecting way, no part of which I can recall except the last line "Oh, wat mus it be to be thar."

"Aftr dat," Jasper continued with a quickened note, "I'd turn out an' view de beauties of de City—de home of my Father. I'd stroll up de avenue where de children of Gord dwells an' view der mansions. Father Abraham, I'm sure he got a grate palis, an' Moses what scorted de children of Israel out of bondage, thn de wilderness an' to de adge of de promised land, he must be pow'rful set up being such ar man as he is, and David, de King dat made de pritty songs, I'd like to see is home, and Paul, de mighty scholar who got struck down out in de 'maseus' road. I want to see his mansion, and all of 'em. Den I would cut round to de back streets and look for de little home whar my savior set my mother up to house-keepin' when she got thar I spee to know the house by de roses in de yard an' de vines on de podh."

As Jasper was moving at a feeling pace along the path of his thoughts, he stopped and cried: "Look dar mighty sweet house, aint it lovely?" Suddenly he sprang back and began to shout with joyous clapping of hands. "Look dar, see dat on de do; hallelujah, it's John Jasper. Said he was gwine to prepare a place for me, dar it is. Too good for a po sinner like me, but he built it for me, a turn-key job, an' mine forev'r. Instantly he was singing his mellow chorus ending as before with— "Oh, wat mus it be to be thar!"

From that scene he moved off to see the angelic host. There were the white plains of the heavenly Canaan—a vast army of angels with their bands of music, their different ranks and grades, their worship before the throne and their pealing shouts as they broke around the throne of God. The charm of the scene was irresistible, it lifted everybody to a sight of heaven and it was real to Jasper. He seemed entranced. As the picture began to fade uprose his inimitable chorus, closing as always— "Oh, wat mus it be to be thar!"

Then there was a long wait. But for the subdued and unworldly air of the old preacher, full seventy years old then, the delay would have dissolved the spell.

"An' now, friends," he said, still panting, and seeking to be calm, "I'll tell you, I'll tak er trip to de throne an' see de King in is roy'l garbints. It was an event to study him at this point. His earnestness and reverence passed all speech, and grew as he went. The light from the throne dazzled him from afar. There was the great white throne, there, the elders bowing in adoring wonder—there, the archangels waiting in silence for the commands of the King—there the King in his resplendent glory, there in hosts innumerable were the ransomed. In point of vivid description it surpassed all I had heard or read. By this time the old negro orator seemed glorified. Earth could hardly hold him. He sprang onto the platform with a boy's alertness, he was unconsciously waving his handkerchief as if greeting a conqueror, his face was streaming with tears, he was howling before the redeemer he was clapping his hands, laughing, shouting and wiping the blinding tears out of his eyes. It was a moment of transport and unthought wonder to everyone, and I felt as if it could never cease, when suddenly in a new note he broke into his chorus, ending with the soul-melting words: "Oh, wat mus it be to be thar!"

It was climax of climaxes. I supposed nothing else could follow. We has been up so often and so high we could not be carried up again. But there stood Jasper, fully seeing the situation. "My bruthrin," said he as if in apology, "I dun forgot something. I got to take another trip. I aint vis'd de ransom of de Lord. Can't slight dem. I knows heab ov em an' bou, ter see 'em."

In a moment he had us out on the celestial plains with the saints in line. There they were—countless and glorious. We walked the hold line and had a sort of universal handshake in which no note of time was taken. "Hur's Brer, Abul, de fust man what got hur, Hur's Brer, Knoch whar took a stroll and straggled inter glory, hur's ole Ligie whar had her carriage sent fur 'im, an' com'd a nigher way frum de city." Thus we went on greeting patriarchs, prophets, apostles, martyrs, his brethren and loved ones gone before until suddenly he sprang back and raised a shout that fairly shook the roof: "Here she is; I know'd sh'd get hur why,

Mary Barnes, you got home did yer? A great hand-hake he gave her and for a moment it looked as if the newly glorified Mary Barnes was the center of Jasper's thoughts, but as if by magic, things changed and he was singing at the top of his voice the chorus which died away amid the shrieks and shouts of his crowd with his plaintive note: "Oh, wat mus it be to be thar!"

Jasper dropped exhausted into a chair and some chief singer of the old-time sort, in noble scorn of all choirs, struck that wonderful old song, "When death shall shake my frame," and in a moment the great building throbbed and trembled with the mighty old melody. It was sung only as Jasper's race ran, and especially as only Jasper's emotional and impassioned church could sing it.

The stern old orator, brave as a lion, rich in humor, grim and a dreamer whose dreams were full of heaven has uttered his last message, and have gone within the veil to see the real of his dreaming. If the grapes of Eschol were so luscious to him here, "Oh, wat mus it be for him to be there!"

The fall season is the best time to visit the World's Leading Commercial School. The school is located in the heart of the city, and is surrounded by the most beautiful scenery. OCTOGENARIAN'S LONG TRIP

Winston, Conn., March 15.—William Nettleton, Bristol's most sprightly octogenarian, accompanied by his wife, started on a pleasure trip of 10,000 miles by rail. Attention called to the numerous railroad disasters since the year began had no effect on him. He had planned to go to the south, and he was going, if he got to a smash-up or not.

He will go direct to Phoenix, Ariz., where he will visit friends, then to California, from where he will go to Seattle, Wash., and then to Butte, where he is interested in the water company of that city. Mr. Nettleton will return sometime in the spring if the railroads spare him.

Hunting for Trouble

"I've lived in California 20 years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of lumps, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't quickly cure," writes Charles Walters, of Alleghany, Sierra Co. No one hunting Mr. Walters, it cures every case. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor's 25c.

Post-Office Abolished.

Milton, Ky., March 20.—The post-office at Green, Ky., six miles below here, has been discontinued. The post-office building was washed away by the high water, and Postmaster F. L. Moreland immediately resigned. The postal authorities have been unable to get anyone to accept the place.

Neglected Colds Threaten Life

"Don't trifle with a cold," is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well established ripe cold is to the germs of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this season of year is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by Haynes & Taylor.

The New Pure Food and Drug Law

We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and hoarse voices is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy to children and adults.

To All Suffering From Rheumatism, Kidney or Bladder Troubles.

For those who have Rheumatism, Kidney or Bladder Trouble of any kind, or fear that they are predisposed to any of these diseases, Dr. George Edmund Flood, the specialist on rheumatic diseases, gives in permission to publish the following simple but effective prescription which he uses in his practice, and to which he attributes his remarkable success. Flood's Casuarina Aromatic Compound, once known as Flood's Pinky Ash Bark, half dozen Aromatic Elixirs, four ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Plenty of good pure water should be drunk in addition so that the rheumatic poisons can be flushed from the system. Any druggist will put up the prescription or you may get the ingredients and mix them your self. The prescription is inexpensive, agreeable to take and coming from such a successful specialist, is worthy a trial.

The New No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.

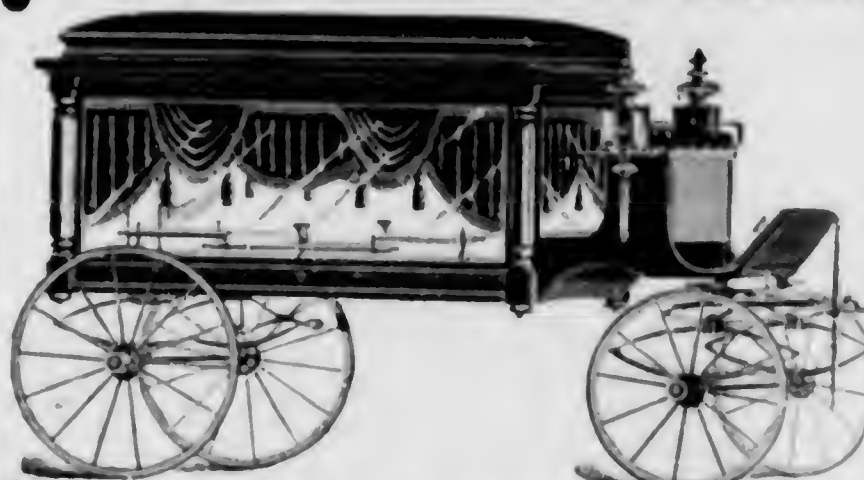

For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with our children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison-marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simple refuse to accept any other. Sold by Haynes & Taylor.
